

THE SEASONS IN ESTABROOK COUNTRY

The Estabrook Woods

The Estabrook Woods is not a public park. Its core is Harvard's nature preserve and research area. The Woods are mostly privately owned, with public access permitted on much for study, sauntering, and low-impact, traditional uses. Please respect research areas and privacy, and leave the country better than you found it. Over thirty years, $3 million in your taxes and even more in donated land and contributions has been spent to save Estabrook Woods. Congratulate yourselves and the other donors. The job is not complete, however. This map is from the Carlisle Mosquito, adapted by Harold Schneider from those of Allie Bemis Buetti and Mary Gail Fenn. The scale of the map is one inch equals approximately 1500 feet. Rev. ELLS 9/99.
